Organization of Legal Professionals Litigation Support Certification Exam Candidate Handbook

This handbook has been prepared to explain what is needed to register for the CLSS® Examination. In it, you will find information regarding eligibility factors, the examination process and an application to take the examination.

Background Information

Litigation Support Professionals come from a wide variety of backgrounds with even more varied job descriptions. Some Litigation Support Professionals are attorneys while other are IT professionals, vendors, paralegals, case managers, expert witnesses, law professors, and PhD's. Some may have a degree in law, business administration, information management, programming, criminal justice, teaching, paralegal or other areas. Every one of these backgrounds brings special areas of expertise to the Litigation Support field. Much of this training has come after employment as a Litigation Support Professional. Every law firm, institution and discipline has unique requirements.

The examination must be based on those areas that are common to all Litigation Support Professionals. It is, out of necessity, a basic examination to test core competencies. Questions are formulated to be straightforward and easily understood.

Items on the examination that you deal with on a daily basis should not require extensive study on your part. It is anticipated that this is part of your working knowledge. Areas that are not part of your daily job requirements may require some research and study. For instance, if you do not deal with substantive issues, you may want to study the requirements of this aspect of Litigation Support. If you are from a country other than the United States, you may want to study the New Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

OLP, is a vendor-neutral organization providing legal technology training, who established the Certification Program for Litigation Support Professionals in order to create an internationally accepted level of knowledge, education and experience by which Litigation Support Professionals will be recognized by the legal community. The Certification Exam has been developed and designed with OLP's strategic partner, Pearson VUE, a division of Pearson Learning Solutions, the global leader in development of certification exams. Content has been provided by OLP while Pearson has provided a team of PhDs and a measurement services team including psychometricians with advanced degrees in the science of measurement. They analyze test data, equate test forms, identify problem items, and conduct item pool reviews and gap analyses. These measurement professionals review performance statistics for every item and make recommendations for examination improvement, ensuring that the range of item difficulty is appropriate and that problem items are identified for review.

Those individuals so approved may use the title "Certified Litigation Support Professional" or CLSS®

Depending upon background, education, license and experience, a Certified Litigation Support Professional may serve as an attorney, paralegal, Litigation Support Manager, Litigation Support Manager, Practice

Support Director, Litigation Support Analyst, consultant, vendor, law professor, case manager or other Litigation Support Professional involved in one or more aspects of Litigation Support including data collection, analysis, or monitoring; case management; protocols, best practices and standards; international Litigation Support; recruitment and enrollment of candidates; identification, process and analysis; trial presentation; information management; electronically stored information; preparation of reports; construction or monitoring of case report forms; records management; budget development; report preparation; education of other legal professionals, trial; drafting of pleadings and documents; protocol development; program administration; and research.

The certification examination has been developed by OLP's Certification Committee and Pearson VUE and designated members who have demonstrated expertise in the development, management, and administration of Litigation Support. Test questions have been written by OLP members from diverse backgrounds and job descriptions. The examination is intended to evaluate the applicant's knowledge and skill in comparison to the demands on a Litigation Support legal professional as they are found in practice of law as attorneys and non-attorneys. OLP has developed a standard core series of competencies that reflects the basic knowledge required of Litigation Support Professionals. These core competencies are assessed by the Certification Examination.

Standards of Practice

It is the goal of the Organization of Legal Professionals to encourage members, and assure the competency of certified members, in their application of approved Litigation Support regulations and approved Litigation Support guidelines. Members are expected to adhere to national, state, local and provincial regulations and to international guidelines and all applicable Federal, state and local laws and policies.

Examination Development

The certification examination has been developed by OLP's Certification Committee and designated members who have demonstrated expertise in the development, management, and administration of Litigation Support. OLP's partner in development of the exam is Pearson VUE. Test questions have been written by legal professionals from diverse backgrounds and job descriptions. The examination is intended to evaluate the applicant's level of knowledge and skill in comparison to the demands on a Litigation Support Professional as they are found in the practice of law and non-attorney duties.

Unlike many certifying organizations in the legal field, OLP's membership is made up of individuals with a wide variety of backgrounds and job descriptions. Much of the training required of a legal professional is specific to the law firm, practice specialty and discipline in which they are employed. It would be impossible to develop one examination that would measure a level of expertise for each specific area in the legal field. Satisfactory completion of the OLP Certification Examination indicates that the applicant has surpassed the minimum level of education and experience required of a Litigation Support Professional.

The world of Litigation Support is a constantly changing work environment for the Litigation Support Professional. For that reason, the certification program and the certification examinations will be a continually evolving project, which will be directed by the needs of the membership. It is anticipated that the certification program will develop levels of certification in the near future that will additionally define the term "Certified Litigation Support Professional."

Applying for the CeDP® Exam

There three easy steps to begin the CLSS® examination process:

1. Complete the application form

2. E-mail, fax or mail your application with supporting documents and payment. You may pay the application fee online via credit card or PayPal.
3. You may choose to take the certification exam with or without enrolling in the online, self-study prep courses. Once your application and payment has been received and approved, we will send you an identification number that allows you to download the prep courses (if you have signed up) and also allows you to register to take the CLSS® exam at any one of over 1,000 Pearson centers worldwide.

Qualifications and Eligibility Requirements

To be eligible to sit for the CLSS® Examination, all candidates must:

1. Provide three professional references.
2. Provide a resume or bio including employers' contact information.
3. Submit a completed application with supporting documentation and the examination fee.

Education

Requirements

CLSS® candidates must hold a bachelor's degree (or higher degree) or educational or work history equivalent. Candidates must meet the education requirement before their CLSS® application can be approved and before they can register and sit for the exam.

Equivalents/Exceptions

■ Certain international professional designations (such as Chartered Accountant) may be accepted as equivalent to a bachelor's degree. Professional work experience may substitute for an appropriate degree.

■ Applicants who do not have a bachelor's (or higher) degree but believe that their educational achievements or professional designations qualify as equivalents to a bachelor's (or higher) degree must choose "Other" in the "Education" section of the CLSS® application and provide specific information in the space provided, as well as submit required documentation. Information submitted should be sufficiently detailed to enable the Professional Certification Board to determine equivalency. Documentation of educational achievements should clearly indicate that the education is equivalent to a bachelor's degree.

Required Documentation

■ Applicants must indicate their highest level of education on the CLSS® application.

■ Proof of education (copy of degree or transcripts) is required. This document should be faxed or e-mailed (along with a cover sheet indicating the candidate's ID number) immediately following completion of the CLSS® application.

■ Candidates may be accepted into the CLSS® program based on the information they provide about their education on the application, but supporting documentation is still required. Once a candidate's application is approved, the candidate may begin the exam registration process before submitting the remaining documentation.

■ Applicants must provide accurate information on the CLSS® application. If a candidate's submitted documentation does not support the information that was provided on the application, the candidate can face review and censure including, but not limited to, removal from the CLSS® program and revocation of CLSS® exam parts or certification.

Experience

Requirements

■ CLSS® candidates must obtain a minimum of 3 years experience in Litigation Support or its equivalent. Candidates may apply to sit for the exam prior to satisfying the professional experience requirement but they will not be certified until all program requirements have been met.

Equivalents/Exceptions

- Acceptable equivalent experience includes experience in computer forensics, IT, computer forensics, eDiscovery, records management, compliance, risk management, the practice of law or as a paralegal.
- A J.D. or Ph.D. degree can be substituted for two years of the required 3 years Litigation Support experience. An MBA or MA degree can be substituted for one year of the required 3 years Litigation Support experience.

Required Documentation

- A completed, signed Experience Verification Form (available in this handbook) is required. This document should be submitted upon full completion of the experience requirement.

Examination Content

The certification examination is made up of five major subject areas. Each major area will be included in each examination, but specific questions will vary from one examination date to another. The percentage of questions from each area will change slightly from one examination to another with each question equivalent in weight. There are 100 questions given in a two-hour time period in a secured facility with a proctor. This examination will be revised at least every two years following a review by the Certification Committee.

Period of Eligibility

Once approved, you will have one year within which to take the exam. After one year, you will be required to complete a new application and fulfill all the submission requirements again.

For each testing period that you intend to take the exam, you will need to use the same online application form to register your intent to test and pay the exam fee before the application deadline for that testing period. If you register to take the exam and later decide not to test, you will need to contact OLP to either transfer to another testing period (if eligible) or cancel your exam registration for the current testing period. Transfer or cancellation fees may apply depending on how far in advance you submit your request.

Refunds are not provided to candidates withdrawing from an exam after registration. Candidates with a need to change or cancel examination dates or times must do so no less than 72 hours before the scheduled examination date. OLP charges an administrative fee of $100 for members, $75 for members employed by a government agency and $250 for non-members for those changing or canceling prior to 72 hours.

Scheduling

Appointments may be made in advance or on the day you wish to test, subject to availability. Pearson VUE offers a variety of scheduling options. Once your application has been approved, you will be offered a choice of facilities in which to take the exam.

If an emergency, such as weather or unforeseen circumstances, forces cancellation by OLP or Pearson VUE of an examination at a testing center, all scheduled candidates will be contacted and receive notification concerning the rescheduling and instructions for reapplying. We will do everything possible to minimize the inconvenience.
